DARE AND HEAR MARCH 1st and 10th

How does the CAO work?

Matriculation Requirements
Subject Specific Requirements
Points Requirements

What are matriculation requirements?

The basic requirements that you must have in order to go to third level.

Usually relate to Maths, English and Irish/Language

Check the matriculation/minimum requirements for every course you have listed on the CAO.

Most unlikely would not meet the requirements, but nonetheless should check.

What are subject specific requirements?

Certain courses require students to have taken a specific subject in the Leaving Certificate and to have achieved a certain grade in it.

Some Examples:

Veterinary: Chemistry H5

Primary School Teaching: Irish H4

Medicine in UCD, Trinity, RCSI and UCC have all different requirements (1 science subject/2 sciences etc)

What Are Points?

Points are used to rank applicants in order of merit in order to allocate places.

Maximum is 625

What determines points?

(a) Number of Applicants
(b) Number of Places
(c) Performance of Applicants

GENUINE ORDER OF PREFERENCE

What is the best way to fill out your CAO Form?

GENUINE ORDER OF PREFERENCE

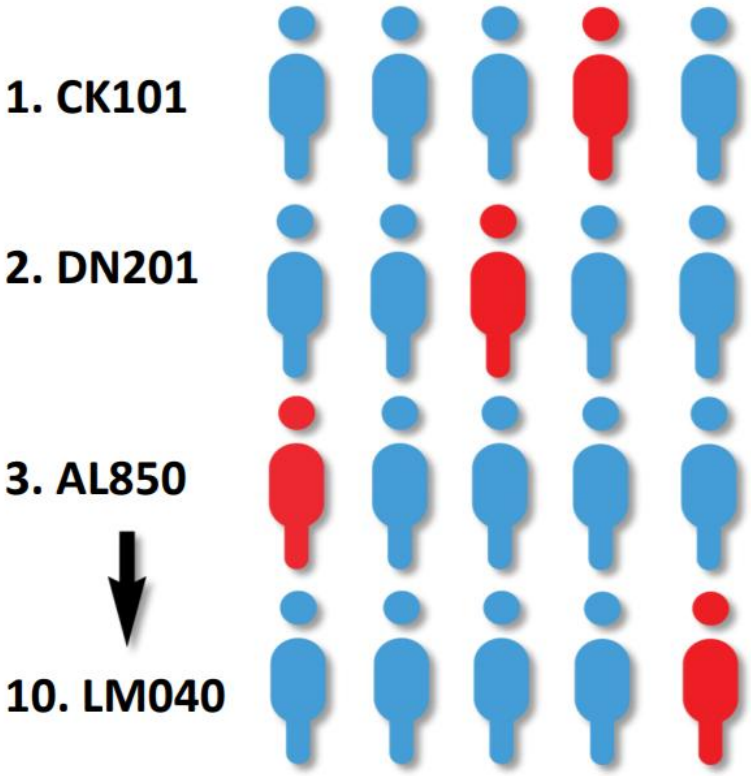

How does Genuine Order of Preference work to your advantage?

EXAMPLE
– no results yet!

- These are the applicants for CK101 - Arts in UCC.
- The examination results have not yet been released, so these applicants are in no particular order.
- We are going to trace the progress of the applicant marked in red.

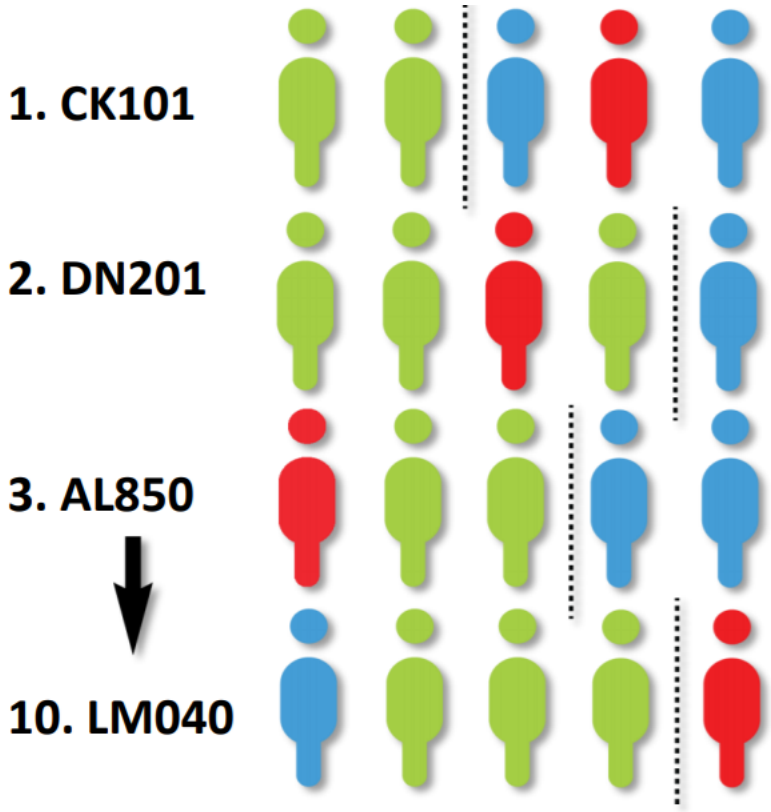

Follow the student in red

EXAMPLE
– LC results have been released.

- Applicants are placed in a queue for each course they applied for. Their position in the queue is determined by their points.
- The applicant with the highest points is placed at the top of the queue. The points achieved by the applicant in red determines her position in the queue for each course she has applied to.

Round 1: She has not received an offer for her 1st choice. BUT she is in 2nd place in the queue for it. She is eligible for her second choice and receives an offer for it.

EXAMPLE
– HEIs issue R1 offers

- The applicants marked in GREEN have enough points to be offered places.
- The applicant marked in RED has enough points for her second preference.

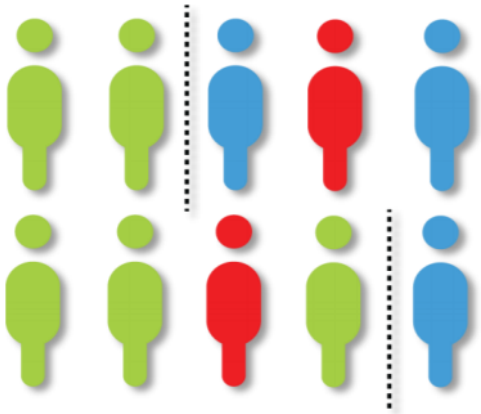

Round 1: She receives an offer for her second choice.

Everything below her second choice disappears.

She is still in the queue for her 1st choice

1. CK101

2. DN201

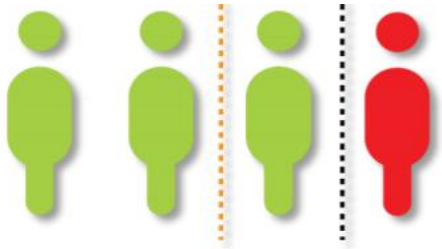

EXAMPLE
– HEIs issue R1 offers

- The applicant in RED is offered her second preference, the highest preference course that she has enough points for, and she will now disappear from the queue for all her lower choices.
- Placing DN201 as her second preference meant that she would prefer to receive an offer on DN201 than on any other course except CK101 - which is her first preference.

Round 2:

She has accepted her second choice and is now in 1st place on waiting list for her 1st choice

1. CK101

EXAMPLE – R2 offers

- After Round 2 offers are issued, our applicant is now in first place on the waiting list for her first preference course.
- She has already accepted her 2nd preference course. Accepting or not accepting her 2nd preference course will not prevent her from receiving an offer of her 1st preference course if she is deemed eligible by the institution in a later round.

Round 3: She receives an offer for her 1st place!

1. CK101

EXAMPLE – An offer is issued in R3 for her 1st preference!

- In the third round of offers two more offers are made on CK101 and our applicant, who was at the top of the queue, now receives an offer.
- She may do nothing and remain in DN201 or she may accept the offer.

GENUINE ORDER OF PREFERENCE

In a later round the student may be offered a higher preference course. At that point she can choose to accept it or stay where she is.

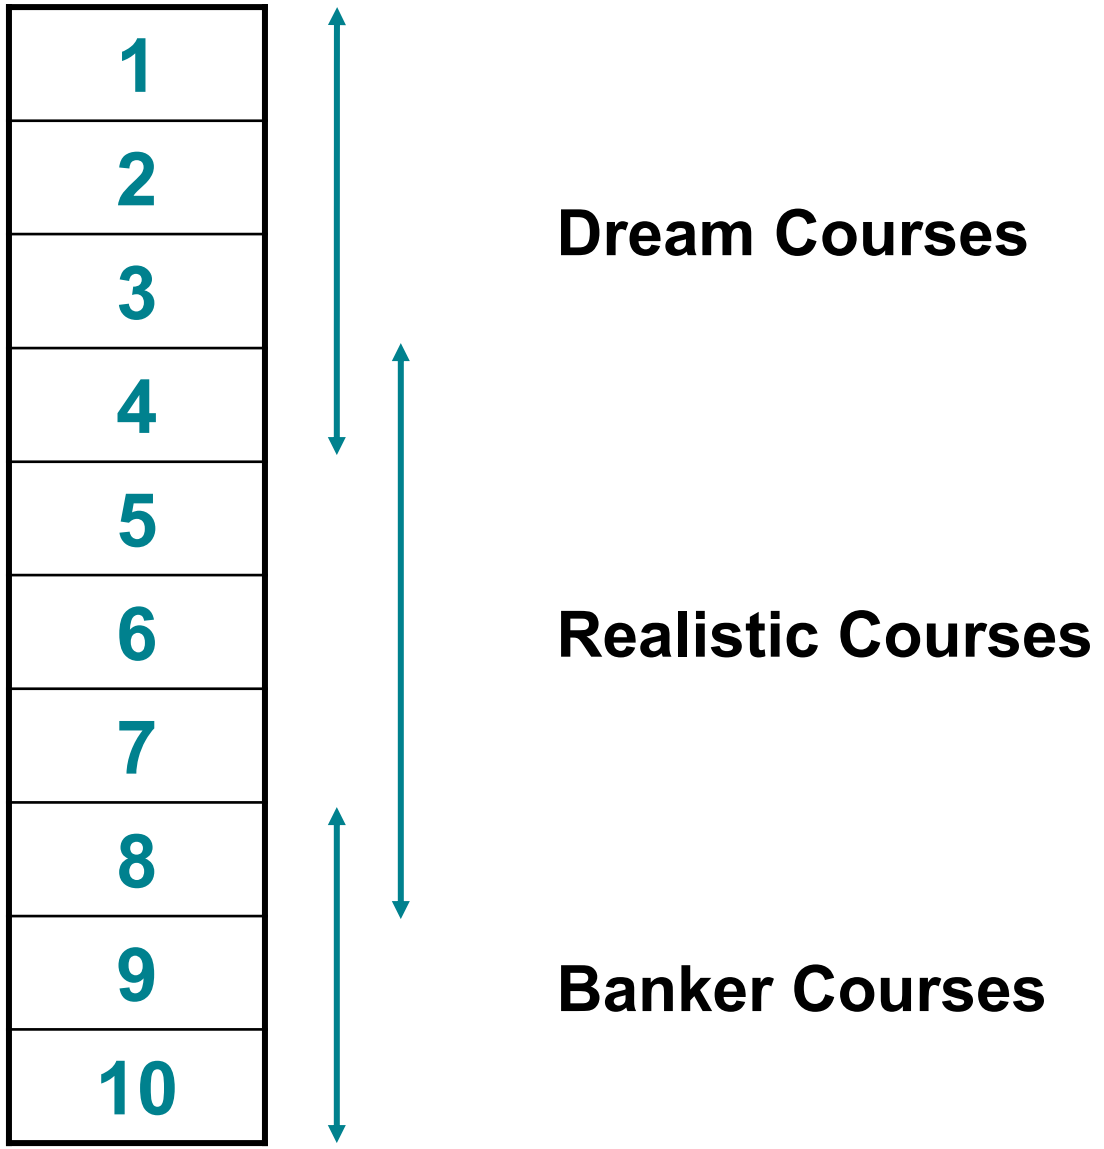

The only way is UP.

You can go up your list of preferences but not down because CAO presumes that you have ranked your courses in genuine order of preference.

If you rank a course in third position, then that means you want it more than the course you have placed in fourth position, regardless of whether the course in fourth position ends up at a higher points value than the course you have ranked third.

This is why GENUINE ORDER OF PREFERENCE is the key to CAO success.

What is the best way to fill out your CAO?

CAO Golden Rules

1. You can move up but never down
2. You can only accept one offer in each round
3. Treat any offer as if it is your last!
4. Random selection (*)
5. Available Places
6. Appeals, upgrades and subsequent offers
7. Deferrals

Level 5 and 6 PLCs College of Further Education No points

What are PLCs?

Post Leaving Certificate Courses are one and two year courses that lead to a F.E.T.A.C. Award.

These Awards can offer direct entry into employment or an alternative route into higher level education.

Allow students to study a programme in which they have expressed an interest in while also providing links to higher/further education.

- Programmes have a strong vocational element and all have a work experience component.

- (F.E.T.A.C = Further Education and Training Awards Council)

Benefits?

Good option rather than doing wrong university course for a year.

Wide diversity of course choices.
Only one or two years long with certification on completion.
Gain confidence and maturity

Can in some cases be used as an alternative entry route into Higher Education

How do I apply?

Applications open in December

Progression to Level 7 and Level 8

Within the CAO System PLC students can gain entry to third level courses if they do very well in their FETAC Qualification.

Check on the CAO website whether there is a progression route from the PLC into the college course.

When selecting a level 8 or level 7 course using www.careersportal.ie always check if there is a QQI (PLC) progression route and apply to that PLC.
